Kickoff 2016

The U. S. Space Program

Saturday, January 30, 2016

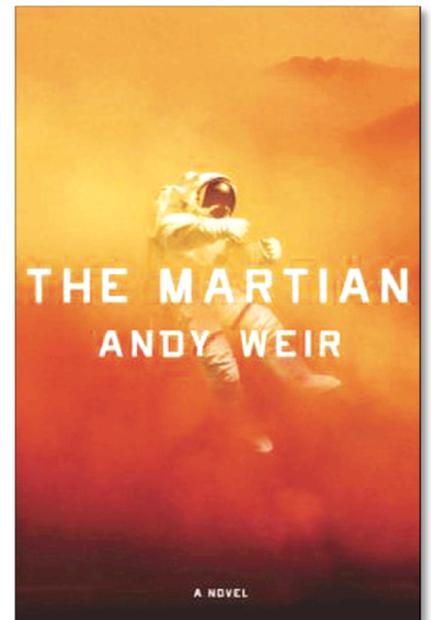

2 PM

Clifton Park-Halfmoon Public Library

Appropriate for families with children.

Registration recommended.

Discover the development and successes of the U. S. space program with Lester Gerhardt, engineer and RPI professor in both Engineering and Science. Dr. Gerhardt was personally involved in the development of space flight simulation for astronaut training. He coordinated Space Week, celebrating the 30th anniversary of man landing on the moon and mentored many students who have lived and worked on the International Space Station.

Is The Martian science fiction or is it realistic fiction? Is human travel to Mars possible? Why should Mars be explored? Join us to rejuvenate interest in the astounding achievements of space exploration!

You chose The Martian by Andy Weir.

Thank you for your nominations and votes.

Nominations for 2017 are now open January through May.
